Tips and favourite places 2022

Most of all, it's the people who shape a region – with their strength and perseverance, their inventiveness and social involvement they have cultivated the land from the very beginning and are continuing to set new standards for innovation and quality of life. Some of the achievements occur without much ado and take effect through solidarity, others have made it possible for the region and economy to visibly grow and prosper. That's one of the reasons why we always like to present people from the region. Ruth Swoboda is the scientific director at the inatura museum and her sphere of influence is huge because, over the last ten years, she's transformed her place of work into the region's most visited attraction. As someone who is originally from Lower Austria, she takes a valuable look at settling, working and living in the region and sheds light on everything we love – from cultural life to biodiversity.

Taking nothing for granted

The Bodensee-Vorarlberg region is a reliable magnet for visitors from across the globe and – even if the tourism industry is still struggling with the after-effects of recent events – we have been able to resume our work again with renewed vigour. The borders are open and will hopefully remain so, visitors have returned and booking figures are on the up while the opportunities to take part in the cultural and culinary variety that the region has to offer are as great as ever.

But none of this can be taken for granted. The gratitude and joy I have always felt for this special task has only increased with the pandemic – for all the wonderful encounters with people, for a reliable team and our wonderful partner businesses that have been accompanying us on this journey for so many years. And for you, the people holding this brochure in their hands and who are inspired by our region, its sights and activities.

We continue to seek out personalities to present to you here in this brochure and on the website with the aim of providing deeper insights into what life is like in the region. These are dedicated people from different fields of activity but they're all in their own way passionate about what they do. The number of such people that live here is extraordinary. They get a lot moved and they let themselves be moved. We can only present a random selection of these people, through encounters that also enrich our own field of activity.

We hope that you'll also be able to immerse yourself in the wealth of natural experiences and cultural delights that are available here and that you'll let yourself be surprised and that you'll return – simply because it's always worthwhile. That, too, is something that cannot be taken for granted and for which we are grateful. I hope you enjoy the read and your stay in the Bodensee-Vorarlberg region.

Urs Treuthardt

Managing Director at Bodensee-Vorarlberg Tourismus

About the region

A central haven of tranquillity in Vorarlberg is Lake Constance whose shoreline on the Austrian side stretches for 28 kilometres through nature reserves and publicly accessible bathing areas. Its water quality is outstanding. It supplies, for instance, southern Germany with 128 million cubic litres of drinking water each year.

The Bodensee-Vorarlberg region is one of six tourism destinations in Vorarlberg. Our activities focus on the area between Hohenweiler in the north and Nenzing in the south of the region and – not to forget – the Rhine Valley in between with its four cities of Dornbirn, Feldkirch, Bregenz and Hohenems. Around two-thirds of Vorarlberg's population live and work in the conurbations located within the Rhine Valley.

A remarkable density of internationally successful companies, innovative start-ups and a cultural and culinary diversity is to be encountered here that comes close to that usually only found in urban agglomerations – with all the benefits and disadvantages. Traffic, for instance, is sometimes heavy, particularly on days that are great for skiing and during the summer travel season, but the public transport network and particularly the steadily growing network of cycle paths offer very convenient and attractive alternatives.

Vorarlberg is situated at an altitude of 395 metres above sea level. The Piz Buin, at 3,312 metres, is the highest point in the region. The region covers an area of 2,601 square kilometres, which only represents 3.1% of Austria's total size – a small region that's full of magnificent natural spectacles and urban amenities. Almost 400,000 people live where others enjoy spending their holidays – most of them are able to appreciate the quality of life here. Precisely because nothing can be taken for granted.

Public transport

The public transport system in Vorarlberg is well developed, and offers a good alternative to driving. A standardised fare system applies to the trains, town and regional buses. The state is divided into 'zones'. A day ticket for the entire public transport system costs € 15.40 for adults. Timetables and detailed fare information are available at www.vmobil.at: you can also download an app for smartphones from fairtiq. The Bodensee-Vorarlberg Leisure Card entitles you to travel free of charge by bus or train throughout the Vorarlberg region; you can also travel by train to the border stations to 'Lindau-Insel' (Germany), St. Margrethen (Switzerland), Buchs (Switzerland) and St. Anton am Arlberg.

The climate concerns us all

Last year, Ruth Swoboda celebrated her 10th anniversary as the Scientific Director at the inatura in Dornbirn. Along with Managing Director Peter Schmid, she's responsible for running the museum that attracts the highest number of visitors with lots of ideas in Vorarlberg.

It always looks as if every success were for her part of a great game that she is genuinely enjoying. She studied biology and behavioural sciences when she retired from her athletic career. Her enthusiasm is really infectious, even when it comes to difficult issues: "Whether the climate is changing or not – the debate is over. We need to become a majority and that's why society needs to take back ownership of the discussion." That's why the energetic director has included the museum in the responsibility, for instance, in raising the public's awareness, for complying with its own sustainability criteria, for education and research as far as it is able to do so with its small team. She's also drawing, for example, on the power of 'citizen science': where interested amateurs are entrusted with such tasks as counting the number of insects in a field. The data are used in research – and entirely normal people are turned into ambassadors for the state of nature.

The school in the great outdoors – a favourite project for the education team at inatura museum – is pursuing a similar goal. Entire school classes hold their normal lessons outdoors; this form of schooling raises awareness among children and young people on a lasting basis. It also casts a glimpse into the future because Ruth Swoboda is strongly committed to deepening and broadening education and research. That includes the changing exhibitions, which attract around 120,000 visitors to the museum every year, and the extensive programme of schooling and excursions into nature as well as the museum's educational programmes.

The team has been working for months on its application for the Austrian Eco-Label for museums. The process means that the entire operation is being thoroughly examined for the purposes of redesigning processes and materials and not only of achieving compliance with the Eco-Label's requirements but also of aligning the museum with the UN's 17 Sustainable Development Goals.

Culture meets you.

Culture is, without doubt, the first answer that comes to the mind of each and every local when asked to name the most prominent feature of life in the region of Bodensee-Vorarlberg. Cultural life in the region is high-brow – as high as it possibly can be for a region which doesn't have a big city. Something has established itself here which you normally only find in cultural conurbations, i.e. wide acceptance for art and culture, which leaves a lasting impression on the atmosphere. The major cultural institutions with their international appeal and the many regional productions, of an exceptionally high quality, have contributed equally to this. Essentially, a lively cultural scene influences all areas and boosts the quality of life.

Encountering buildings meet you.

Attractive excursion destinations to historical and architectural sights are on offer across the region. Vorarlberg has always been a frontier region and a strategically important location, which is why, from the Romans to the Habsburgs, changing powers have built and maintained massively walled outposts. Castles, palaces, churches and ruins remain popular attractions and make it possible for visitors to travel back in time.

But modern architects have also come up with some impressive answers to the demands of today's world. It's not for nothing that entire classes of architectural students take trips to Vorarlberg for inspiration. The following pages can act as a guide if you wish to take a similar trip.

vai Vorarlberg Architecture Institute

It was on the initiative of members of the national association of architects of the state which brought about the Vorarlberger Architektur Institut in 1997. The sustainable consolidation of building culture in Vorarlberg is the association's objective. The vai regularly holds exhibitions, offers round-table events, guided tours of particular architectural gems and operates a reference library which also contains numerous periodicals.

Bregenz

Kunsthhaus Bregenz (arts centre)

Architect Peter Zumthor

The lake with its constantly changing plays of light provides the outer decoration for the glass lamp structure that encloses the concrete cube of the Kunsthhaus. It was intended to be a simple container for art, said Peter Zumthor at its opening, and because he always radically implements whatever he has found to be right, the exhibiting artists are confronted with this grandiose simplicity. There is no view from the inside out, the exhibition rooms in the three upper storeys are each limited by concrete walls behind which the staircases and lifts disappear and even the daylight and artificial lighting are only allowed in through the ceilings between the storeys.

→ Karl-Tizian-Platz, T +43 (5574) 485940,  p. 37 – 8

vorarlberg museum (state museum)

Architects cukrowicz.nachbaur

"The museum contains Roman vessels, up to 10,000 copies of which were manufactured in one firing", says Anton Nachbaur. "So this is real mass production. We asked ourselves what the equivalent would be nowadays. That's how we hit on the idea of the plastic bottles that you see everywhere." These now decorate the facade of the new part, which opens onto Kornmarktplatz, whilst the historically preserved part remains facing the lake, without the plastic bottles. Inside, thick earth plaster walls and untreated wooden floors convey a natural atmosphere.

Die Welle (harbour building)

Architects Wolfgang Ritsch, Nägele Waibel, Bruno Spagolla

'Die Welle' serves both as the harbour building and a cafe, fits perfectly into the complex of large buildings on Seestrasse and, with its automatically opening and closing glass front, provides a softer response in size and shape to the glass cube. In any case, in the 'Welle', far away from the noise of the traffic at last, you can sit exactly where the sun looks most beautiful at sunset.

Festspielhaus Bregenz (festival house)

Architects Dietrich | Untertrifaller

The floating stage, with 7,000 seats and its view of the stage and the open horizon, is one of the landmarks of Vorarlberg. The event venue and congress centre, however, also boasts a large hall with 1,800 seats, various studios and the Werkstattbühne area. In 2006, the original building, dating from 1979, was renewed and expanded by architects Dietrich | Untertrifaller. The Festspielhaus Bregenz has been an architectural highlight on the shores of the lake for decades and copes elegantly with the impressive numbers of visitors.

Environs

Michelehof (farmhouse)

Architect Philip Lutz

Schnapps distillery, sales room, tasting room, schnapps warehouse, machine hall and workshop – plus three generations housed in the residential part of the farmhouse and a stall for the cows; all of these are harmoniously contained and sensibly designed in the new construction by Phillip Lutz. And this is precisely what it needs, because customers for the legendary schnapps from the Michelehof appear regularly and in vast numbers – and rightly so.

Dornbirn

inatura Museum

Architects Dietrich | Untertrifaller, Hermann Kaufmann, Christian Lenz

The industrial history of Dornbirn left a disused assembly building and foundry on the site of the Rüsich works. inatura – which is both an interactive exhibition and a research and documentation centre for the nature of Vorarlberg – found its natural home in the industrial premises. To build the museum and the municipal park designed by the landscape architects Rotzler Krebs Partner, parts of the building had to be demolished but the assembly building, the old and new foundry, the turning shop and the smithy have been retained. An extension was required for the offices and ancillary rooms.

Stadtbibliothek Dornbirn (library)

Architects Christian Schmölz, Dietrich|Untertrifaller

The library in Dornbirn's Schulgasse, newly built in 2019, is one of the city's architectural highlights. Reflecting the building's function, the oval façade with more than 7,000 ceramic bricks is reminiscent of bookcases and shelves. Floor-to-ceiling windows in all four directions allow the light to flood through the building and symbolise openness and tolerance for all.

Feldkirch

Montforthaus (cultural and conference centre)

Architects Hascher Jehle Berlin and Mitiska Wäger Bludenz

The secret of this successful architecture in the heart of a network of narrow old city streets can be admired in the cultural and conference centre of Feldkirch; soft, twisted shapes make ideal use of the available space without producing an ugly rear site anywhere. The historic Old City and a listed city wall contrast very charmingly with the light, bright facade, and the mighty rock wall on one side and the Schattenburg on the other suddenly look down in a kindly way on the new building.

Artenne (old farmhouse)

Architect Hansjörg Thum

The barn of a farmhouse built in 1841 now houses a lively cultural centre with contemporary literature, film and art. During the essential alteration work, the original structure was retained as far as possible, with new elements supplementing the historic part. The complex network of different levels was also tackled with great care, and the levels are connected by two staircases and a footbridge, instead of a central staircase. The former timber plank hay loft has been transformed into an unusual exhibition space.

Wasserhaus Götzis

Architect Fridolin Welte

This concrete cube is a meditative place where everything revolves around the vital element of water. The artist Fridolin Welte designed the building in 2003 as part of an art competition. The Wasserhaus features walls with holes that resemble a membrane. It is reminiscent of how the human skin works as it breathes, protects and cools.

Historical buildings

Bregenz

St. Martins Tower and Chapel

The choir is adorned with a Gothic fresco cycle from the 14th and 15th centuries, a baroque Madonna adorns the east wall and, on the south wall, a Gothic ambry dating from 1492 has a worthy place. The two side altars, the way of the cross and the life-size wooden statue of St Martin with beggar in the nave of the chapel are unique. The adjacent St Martin's tower used to be a storehouse before it was turned into a watchtower in around 1600. Its baroque, wooden-shingle onion dome is the largest in Central Europe.

→ Oberstadt, Martinsgasse 3, T +43 (5574) 4101561

Castle Hohenbregenz, Gebhardsberg

The Gebhardsberg was appreciated as one of the best vantage points in the whole of the Lake Constance area even 900 years ago. Of the 'Hohenbregenz' fortress (today's Gebhardsberg ruin), all that is left are the remains of the walls. Today a castle restaurant with a medieval ambience and a magnificent panorama terrace sits enthroned in this spot.

→ Gebhardsbergstraße 1, T +43 (5574) 42515

Stadtparish Church St. Gallus

Converted in the 18th century according to the plans of the baroque master builder Franz Anton Beer, this church stands on the very foundations of a Romanesque church from the second half of the 5th century. A lovely example of Lake Constance baroque art. The silver altar can be viewed upon request.

Basilica Maria Bildstein

The Basilica Maria Bildstein is able to look back on many centuries of pilgrimage. After the apparition of the Virgin Mary in 1629, the chapel was no longer large enough. In 1662 Michael Kuen, a master builder from Bregenz, designed a new church and in spring 2018 the pilgrimage church was declared a basilica as the result of its most recent renovations. Its exposed location with fantastic views makes it a popular destination in the region.

Dornbirn

Rotes Haus (red house)

The palace used to be the residence of the Counts of Ems (their marriage policy lead to them being related to the Medici) and, along with Glopper castle and Alt-Ems castle ruin, is still privately owned. Of special mention regarding the history of the palace is the discovery of manuscripts A and C of the song of the Nibelungs. → Schlossplatz 8, T +43 (5576) 77888, 👁 p. 34

Jonas-Schlössle (castle)

The Jonas-Schlössle in the Lake Constance region is regarded as a special example of a stately residence from the renaissance period. The listed building's interior impresses with artistically carved wooden ceilings, massive timber beams and magnificent wall panelling. Nowadays the Jonas-Schlössle is used as a characteristic location for Christmas markets and wedding fairs and is home to the Schlössle bar, where visitors may take a drink or two in unique surroundings.

Feldkirch

Schattenburg (castle)

This is Vorarlberg's most significant gothic church, consecrated as a parish church in 1218. Following severe fires in the 14th and 15th centuries, it had to be rebuilt in 1478, this time bearing the late gothic nave and gable roof it still has today. Upon the establishment of the diocese of Feldkirch, the parish church was made into a cathedral in 1968.

Basilica Rankweil

The basilica is the landmark and heart of Rankweil. The church on the Liebfrauenberg, at an altitude of 50 m, is a fortified church – a special form of early Christian places of worship in Rhaetia built on a height making it hard to reach. Along with the artist Matt Mullican, Cukrowicz and Metzler have extended the space of the Landesgedächtniskapelle. An oblique ray of light falls onto the glass cabinet which houses mementos. What makes life even better: good food, fine drinks and a hospitality landscape of diversity and culture. In this respect, the region is exceptionally fortunate because it is densely populated with attractive restaurants and pubs that boast top-class staff. Many renowned chefs have brought creative recipes and ideas home with them from their experiences abroad and put their ideas of regional cuisine into practice here. The awareness for seasonal offers and environmentally compatible culinary delights is strongly pronounced and also embedded in reliable cooperation with regional food producers. ## #zäm: Partnerships for all

Vorarlberg in its entirety is often perceived as 'small' when seen from the outside. And in terms of area – even compared with other federal states in Austria – that's not entirely wrong. But those who travel in and through the state and especially across the Bodensee-Vorarlberg region will quickly discover that incredibly exciting things are happening here and that there is such variety that it's almost unbelievable – particularly in the fields of hospitality and tourism. Someone who should know about that is chef Franz Hintermaier from Gasthaus Johann. Born in Upper Austria, he has worked in many different countries and now lives in Vorarlberg – so he can look at things from both the inside and out. And he can also share a tip or two about what to enjoy here. Franz says: "I've never experienced such a variety of innovative things in my entire professional career – no matter where. I think it's unrivalled." The secret behind this high-quality variety and innovative power – or at least one of them – is partnerships. The region is not only home to many partnerships, it also boasts particularly magnificent ones. Most extend far beyond traditional business relationships.

In times of crisis, a sense of togetherness is invoked in many places and from all sides. And it's all the easier to achieve if – as in the Bodensee-Vorarlberg region – this togetherness has already been felt and experienced previously. The idea for #zäm was already developed by Bodensee-Vorarlberg Tourismus, Markus Curin and Super BfG back in autumn 2019 – even before the coronavirus pandemic shocked the entire industry. The intention of #zäm was and is to illuminate how important good togetherness is among domestic partners. And how many positive effects such partnerships have for a region, for its visitors as well as for the people who live there. The fact that the first content was then released during the first lockdown was appropriate where the issues were concerned but it wasn't planned. Because #zäm was not and is not simply a project aimed at damage limitation in times of crisis. That's why exciting and inspiring stories will continue to be told under the motto of #zäm.

Regional treasures meet you.

Weekly markets and speciality shops carry within them the taste of a federal state. And each region has its own specific types of culinary product, which are well worth seeing – or rather experiencing and enjoying. It would almost be criminal to pay too little attention to them because they're easy to find in any locality and produce sensations that remain unforgettable. Anyone who has ever tasted a Lustenau mustard or a bag of Fraxner cherries or Vorarlberg mountain cheese... not to mention chocolates made by the craftspeople of Vorarlberg – there's not only abundance and pleasure but also the know-how for refining the region's natural produce into products that deliver maximum enjoyment.

Regional specialities

The region has culinary treasures which many a resourceful mind knows how to use – you'd be well advised to enjoy the taste of tradition and the treasures produced by the local soil. This wins international awards as well as loyal customers who arrive bearing long shopping lists.

Xocolat Manufaktur

'The whole world of chocolate' is the title emblazoned across the chocolate paradise located in Bregenz's Kirchstraße. Four hundred selected bars of chocolate and an incredible array of delicacies made from the cocoa bean – all this awaits true gourmets who are familiar with the happy-making properties of chocolate. You can throw together your own confectionery – the Xocolat Manufaktur not only produces its secret-recipe creations, it also shares – many of its secrets with interested parties in the form of workshops.

Dietrich Vorarlberger Kostbarkeiten

"It is our declared objective to prevent the extinction of raw materials such as old regional varieties of fruit or corn, at the same time revitalising their tradition for the Vorarlberg cuisine," says the inventor of Vorarlberger Kostbarkeiten, Richard Dietrich. Fine spirits, semolina, 'Mostler' and 'Zider' apple drinks and even hand-crafted frying pans are on sale. Always a pleasure: tasting in the store.

Naturprodukte Flatz

The natural foodstuffs shop in the centre of Hard has been supplying the village with organically produced foodstuffs – including many grown on its own farm – for 20 years now. The farm breeds turkeys and keeps mother cows, hence the shop can guarantee healthy, additive-free meat from animals that enjoyed a dignified life before being processed at the farm.

www.naturprodukte-flatz.at

Schobel Höchstgenuss

A further specialist in the art of fine distillation. Above all, however, Schobel Höchstgenuss has made a name for itself with its exceptional range of dried fruit and the increasingly rare 'black nuts' – where else can you get your hands on dried strawberries or walnuts lavishly preserved according to an old tradition? Everything is lovingly done by hand. Tasting in the distillery is also a stimulating event.

Sennereiladen

It goes without saying that some of the most important regional specialities are alpine cheese and its derivatives. It is available, as is fresh butter straight from the dairy, 'Goaßkäse' (goats' cheese), eggs, honey, jam, pasta, etc. in many places especially at the weekly markets – and in the alpine dairy shop.

Lustenauer Senf

There are quite a few people who have this mustard sent to them in their native countries as soon as they have tasted it just the once! The range offered by the family-run company, which is already over a century old, is continually expanding, with the products bearing names such as Black Gold, Mustard with Grappa and Raisins. Yet the classic mustard is – and remains – the best of all mustards!

Schokoladengenuss Fenkart

The café and chocolate shop is the top establishment on the square. A new feature was added to the cake shop some years ago, making it even more special. You can look through a glass window in the cake shop and watch Gunter Fenkart, the boss, at work – adding a new dimension to sampling the wares afterwards. Even without taking a look behind the scenes, the establishment's own range tastes simply unique.

The Zeughaus has long been a household name for those in the know. In addition to being a specialist retailer for high-quality spirits, the Zeughaus is an eldorado for whisky, rum and cognac fans in search of something really good, fine rarities and an expert's advice. ### Alma Fredi's Käslädele

For cheese fans, Fredi Binder's idea of opening a delicatessen in Bregenz in 1982 was pretty brilliant. Fredi was already considered a cheese pioneer at the time and soon his cheese shop was known far beyond the region's borders. Rupp – a privately owned cheese dairy that makes Alma brand cheeses – is now continuing the family tradition and is making cheese fans happy with its variety and knowledge of cheese.

Christmas markets in the region

There is a magic spell over Vorarlberg in the pre-Christmas season. Once it is already dark in the early evening and the first snowflakes fall, the small and large Christmas markets in the region spread the fragrance of roasted almonds, mulled wine and regional specialities. Small handmade presents and entertainment events for children vary from market to market – which is why it is best to let yourself be inspired everywhere.

Christmas market Bregenz

The Christmas market in Bregenz is open all day and attracts great attention in the inner city. The nativity scene with real animals for petting, a small ice rink, the house of the St. Nicholas and many other amusements for children's hearts act like a magnet for children. Sales stalls, tasting culinary delicacies and special meeting places create the contemplative atmosphere which is also part of Advent.

→ Kornmarktplatz, Bregenz

A second Christmas market enchants the medieval lanes in the Bregenz Upper Town on the weekends before Christmas. The two markets clearly differ: small and fine in the Upper Town, larger and colourful in the centre of Bregenz.

→ Martinsplatz, Bregenz

Christkindlemarkt Dornbirn

The centre of Dornbirn transforms itself into a festival of Christmas for young and old during the run-up to big holiday. Selected artisans, an extensive children's programme and various delicacies make a trip to Dornbirn's town centre an unforgettable experience. The seasonal atmosphere is carried along by the market place's bars and restaurants that will be serving traditional delights.

→ Marktplatz, Dornbirn, 🛍️ p. 64

Christmas market Feldkirch

Located in the middle of the historic Old Town, the Christmas market invigorates the Marktgasse from the end of November. The setting of the venerable facades even contributes to the Christmas atmosphere, while decorated shop windows and arcades as well as the attractive range of goods and the harmonious supporting program attract numerous visitors.

Experiences meet you.

It is well-known that the region of Bodensee-Vorarlberg has an abundance of developed hiking and cycle paths, skiing areas, swimming lakes and publicly accessible shores to Lake Constance. It is also well-known that many of them are associated with a varied range of leisure activities for children, families, sportspeople and hikers. However, we would like to take this opportunity to point out that you need time and peace of mind to not rush about from one place another, but rather to emulate the pebble that falls into the water, i.e. slowly let yourself go in one place. Try standing still awhile and enjoying what you see. You will be rewarded.

Variety meets you.

Vorarlberg is made up of six regions, each of which is capable of filling an entire holiday with their beauty, their culture and pleasure. Naturally, however, they are also great for day trips, with the mountain roads and ranges you encounter en route making your trip worthwhile. You are already holding a plethora of information about the region Bodensee-Vorarlberg. The following overview only gives you an outline at most of the five regions in Vorarlberg. Yet rest assured: behind the concise chunks of information lies a rich world of discovery.

Lech-Zürs am Arlberg

The famous winter ski resort which, despite its extensive skiing areas, classy hotels and high-society guests, has managed to retain its original charm. It offers a discerning, cultural range of activities far from the events scene and party zones. The region is an inside tip for summer guests, a greater number of whom are discovering that the hiking routes and spectacles of nature have a particular charm of their own in summer – something the ski enthusiasts couldn't even begin to imagine. For its part, the Philosophicum attracts a clientele of its own to the idyllic location in autumn, turning it into the focal point of philosophical examinations of society.

www.lechzuers.com

Bregenzerwald

In the region of the Bregenzerwald, tradition and design, construction with timber and architecture, rural life and internationally recognised craftsmanship live in harmony. A lot has been written about the Bregenzerwald alpine cheese – you really must try it and see for yourself. On the way to the village alpine dairy, don't forget to take a detour to the Werkraumhaus in Andelsbuch and to the Women's Museum in Hittisau. Both institutions can slightly alter your world view, and wouldn't that be a good thing? If you think that nothing can take you by surprise – go along to one of the numerous gourmet establishments for dinner. Maybe you'll get the surprise of your life!

Montafon

Two impressive mountain ranges surround the Montafon – the Silvretta massif with the Piz Buin, which dwarfs everything else at 3,312 m, and the Rätikon with its glacier slopes. The Silvretta alpine road is considered the 'dream road of the Alps' and offers an unforgettable drive – not only for motorcyclists. People started settling in the then undoubtedly inhospitable region 5,000 years ago. Today, 61 cable cars, over 1,100 km of signposted hiking paths and plenty of hotel beds are proof that the region is now a place of hospitality. 'Wiegensee' in the European nature reserve is elected as the most beautiful place in Austria in 2021.

"Even if the markets in the Rhine Valley are all special, for culinary reasons, I'm often drawn to the Bezau market on Fridays. Because that's where – thanks to the Falling Cowfood truck, the Trevo Roastery and the new food concept at the Gams – perhaps the best burgers, coffees and pizzas in the region are to be found. And then there are the farmers with their high-quality products – wonderful!"

Alpenregion Vorarlberg

From the town of Bludenz, the Alpenregion extends to the valleys of Brandnertal, Klostertal and the biosphere park of Großes Walsertal. They are all home to mountains, glaciers, forests, mountain lakes and rivers. The Lünersee, the shimmering like a crystal-clear, blue glass bead at the foot of the Schesaplana at an altitude of 1,970 m. At 2,965 m, the Schesaplana is the highest mountain in the Rätikon, with the history of the Rhaetians still living on in the names of many places. Hundreds of kilometres of hiking paths, ski lifts, golf courses, summer meadows and farms show themselves at their best. Cultural landscapes which have been lavishly tended for centuries characterise the Großes Walsertal. The recognition of it as a UNESCO biosphere park is a guarantee that these cultural treasures will be preserved. The parish of St Gerold is also a very special place not only because, for decades, it has been the meeting place for internationally successful musical talents who come here to give concerts or record albums – it lies nestled in a valley so narrow and so beautiful it is hard to put into words.

Kleinwalsertal

The Kleinwalsertal is almost completely surrounded by high mountains. Its geographical location in the Allgau Alps means that it has no direct connection with Vorarlberg. It was a duty-free zone for a long time. Since the establishment of the EU, however, this has lost its significance. The diversity of the region, from beginner's runs through to alpine runs for advanced skiers – the skiing area of Kanzelwand-Fellhorn is considered an inside tip, for instance – is what characterises it. Whether it is relaxation, sports or a family holiday you are after, the wealth of options available make sure that many visitors will soon become regular guests. A look into the 'Walser Gipfelbuch' explains online why it is set to stay this way!

Around Lake Constance

Fantastic spectacles of nature, art and culture, historic places and technical features – whatever your senses long for, the shores of the lake offer untold numbers of attractions for your journey of discovery. Maybe you just want to relax, take a lakeside seat and stare off into the distance – with a bit of luck a little steam yacht will sail past.

It is agreed that the below conditions shall apply to the issuance and use of the Bodensee-Vorarlberg Freizeitkarte (Leisure Card), hereafter known as BVFK:

1. Service content:

Upon purchasing the BVFK, the purchaser (BVFK holder) is entitled to use the services of the service partners set out in the Compact Folder. A direct contract is in place only between the BVFK holder and the service partner. The included services  cover the entitlement to make use of the respective service already paid for with the purchase of the BVFK. Bonus services  entitle the holder to a reduction on the fee payable for the respective service of the service partner being used.

2. Scope of service/Liability:

All service partners undertake to make available to the BVFK holders, in terms both of scope and time, the services labelled as BVFK services to their full extent during the promotion period in question, in line with their usual business hours and general terms & conditions of carriage and business. Bonus partners are subject to the best-price guarantee for individual customers.

Restrictions on taking up services under the BVFK may generally be derived from the operating hours of individual BVFK partner businesses that do not cover the entire BVFK promotion period, due in particular to meteorological conditions. Additionally, limitations may arise due to circumstances in the operating company (e.g. technical faults) and blocking periods – defined by one usage per day and per service partner. The published opening times and conditions of use in the Compact Folder, and the notice board at the service partner's premises, shall be the basis for the given service, but shall not be binding.

Bodensee-Vorarlberg Tourismus GmbH reserves the right to terminate the agreement with individual BVFK partner companies and bonus partners for good reason at any time, even during the promotion period, without having to provide the BVFK holder with any compensation for this lost opportunity to make use of the services offered. In particular, Bodensee-Vorarlberg Tourismus GmbH accepts no liability of any kind for any damage suffered by the BVFK holder in connection with using the services. Upon using the services offered under the BVFK, the BVFK holder only becomes the contractual partner of the BVFK partner company, to the extent that claims of any kind may be enforced exclusively against the service partner in question.

3. Particular restrictions of individual companies:

- Vorarlberg-Lines: 10% price reduction for the tour of Bregenz bay and the three country panoramic cruise.
- Laterns summer toboggan run and cable car: 10 – 20% price reduction on the ride.

- Boat Hire Bregenz and Boat Hire Hard: 10% price reduction on pedal boat or electric boat ride.
- Bicycle Hire Dornbirn: 20% price reduction on rented bike

- Surfmax: 10% price reduction on rental of SUP, canoe, kayak and outrigger canoe (one hour for free for windsurf basic course or trial course).

The BVFK is a leisure card and the services included on it can be used for free once a day for each service partner, with a set blocking time of 00:00. Repeated use with a single partner several times on the same day is not permitted.

4. Validity conditions:

The BVFK card is issued in the name of the holder, is non-transferable and applies only in conjunction with a valid form of photographic ID. The services connected to the BVFK may therefore be used only by the named purchaser within the period of validity of the BVFK (promotion period). The BVFK is valid for one, two or three consecutive calendar days (valid from the date of issuance).

5. Use:

In order to claim the services included, the BVFK holder must present his or her card with the BVFK barcode so that its validity and the holder's identity may be verified by the BVFK partner company with a terminal or by simple visual inspection.

In order to claim the bonus services, the BVFK holder must present his or her card with the BVFK barcode so that its validity and the holder's identity may be verified by simple visual inspection.

The BVFK holder is required to present a valid form of photographic ID upon request. If he or she is unable to do so, free entry to the BVFK partner companies and/or price reduction with the bonus partners may be refused.

6. Misuse:

In the event of misuse or the suspicion of misuse, the BVFK partner companies are entitled and required to confiscate the card without any replacement. The BVFK may not be transferred to third parties – to do so may result in criminal proceedings.

7. Prices and reductions for children:

The prices set out in the Compact Folder (inclusive of value-added tax) are valid for adults and children (one-day card € 16 or € 8, two-day card € 25 or € 12.50 and three-day card € 32 or € 16). Children under the age of five are exempt from paying entrance fees. Children and young people up to the age of 15 are entitled to the reduced tariff.

8. Theft/loss:

If the BVFK is lost or stolen, the purchaser may report this on +43 (5574) 43443 – 0. Bodensee-Vorarlberg Tourismus GmbH accepts no liability in the event of the theft or loss of the BVFK.

9. Applicable law and place of jurisdiction:

Austrian law is exclusively applicable to all contractual relationships. The sole place of jurisdiction is the court legally responsible for Bregenz.

10. Data protection declaration:

When the BVFK is issued, personal data are processed; the BVFK holder consented to this by purchasing the BVFK. The data notified are used to develop and process the BVFK. The BVFK holder agrees that his or her data may be collected and saved on electronic data carriers for the purposes of bookkeeping, contractual fulfilment, etc. Personal data will be passed on to third parties without the consent of the client only in the event of urgent legal requirements or to the extent necessary for the use of the BVFK. Seventeen short texts are currently travelling around the world. They look inconspicuous but readers engaging with them more closely will soon become engrossed in their depth and meaning. It's like opening a most delightful Pandora's box that contains 17 sustainability objectives to govern how we interact with the world – and their consequences are spectacular. Composed as easy-to-understand texts, these goals have a habit of becoming interconnected. Picking only one up will soon make you realise that the other 16 are also attached to it. They develop a quiet and unobtrusive effect – but a thorough one. They also keep turning up in unexpected places in Vorarlberg and seem at first glance to take great pleasure in turning everything on its head. Companies and organisations, such as the inatura Museum, are making their experiences in this way and drawing initial conclusions. They're still flying under the social media radar and are spreading without much of a stir. But for the region, one stone after the other has already started rolling, it's clear to see that the first steps towards implementing the objectives have been taken. In the end, everything could turn out all right that isn't already perfectly all right yet. More on this in the cover story 'climate concerns us all' on page 9.
